

Tue 4/10/2011

I consider the draft grandparenting standard to be inadequate and needs to include the list of courses submitted by the AACMA. The list should also include Masters degrees in both Acupuncture and Traditional Chinese Medicine.

I also wish to put the views below:

- Australian-trained practitioners applying for registration under the national scheme should not be put to a higher grandparenting standard than applied under the Victorian scheme;
- All government/university-accredited qualifications at least three years full-time equivalent duration should be included on the list of courses deemed adequate for grandparenting, and that this include the past advanced diploma and diploma level programs;
- Unaccredited programs that were recognised by AACMA as meeting the requirements for practice at that time should also be included on the list of courses deemed adequate for grandparenting, and that this include the past practitioner diploma and unaccredited bachelor programs;
- The list submitted by the AACMA of Australian Chinese medicine programs deemed adequate for grandparenting purposes should be included on the CMBA list of courses deemed adequate for grandparenting purposes.

Wade James

Master of Health Science in TCM, UTS, Sydney