New legal requirements apply to Chinese medicine practitioners from 1 July 2012

It is each individual's responsibility to read and understand the requirements of the National Law that apply to all Chinese medicine practitioners from 1 July 2012.

Everything you need to know is published on the Chinese Medicine Board of Australia's website, including:

- an explanatory document in Chinese
- the mandatory registration standards that must be met to be registered
- the application form
- supplementary information about how to apply for registration
